

In British Cabinet Shakeup

British Public Clamoring For "Shakeup" Explanation

One Thing Is Clear — It's a Disconcerting Affair When Empire Security Is At Stake

By DEWITT MCKENZIE

The political upheaval involving the dismissal of British war Minister Leslie Hore-Belisha still lacks official explanation despite the English public clamor for it, but no further word is necessary to make it clear that it is a disconcerting affair at a time when the security of empire is at stake.

Many rumors are being bandied about, but apparently there were irreconcilable differences between the exceedingly assertive Mr. Hore-Belisha and the clannish military chiefs. That would be a nasty situation which neither could increase British prestige abroad nor help the morale of the fighting forces and the general public.

Difficult Decision

Premier Chamberlain was faced with a difficult decision. It wasn't a matter of getting rid of an incompetent servant. Hore-Belisha is a driving force, and is credited with having done a great job of modernizing the army during his two years as war minister. He is popular with the rank of the fighting forces because of increased pay and other benefits. The general public, if it has not deep affection for him, still admires his push and progressive ideas.

Mr. Chamberlain's problem appears to have been that the army wasn't big enough to hold both his war minister and the general staff. Now when it comes to a choice between getting rid of a war minister, even one who is supreme in most branches, and rendering your general staff impotent, or at least inefficient, by making it subservient to the unwelcome views of the minister, then there isn't much argument.

One thing which seems to have brought the matter to a head was the reported resentment of the general staff to what they regarded as Hore-Belisha's intrusion on their preserves. They felt that the minister—who served in the World War but isn't a professional soldier—was trying to run the whole show himself. That has been attempted before, and it won't work—not with the British army.

Mr. Hore-Belisha may get some consolation from the fact that none other than the late Field Marshal Lord Kitchener, England's great hero, all but came this identical cropper while war minister in the World War.

Hore-Belisha is what the London cockney would call a "bit cocky." He is pushing and aggressive. He also is one of England's best self-advertisers.

He has shattered tradition by promoting men from the ranks. He has ignored seniority and blue blood and has promoted on ability. He has lowered the barriers so that officers and men may at least mix socially if they see fit.

Undoubtedly all these factors enter into the "prejudice" upon which is built the resentment against the war minister.

LIVERPOOL DRY AS MAIN BREAKS

Reservoir Is Drained; Restaurant Customers Are Limited To Half-Glass

EAST LIVERPOOL, Jan. 8.—A water main break shut off the supply to nearly half this city of 25,000 population today. Most schools closed and some factories shut down. Restaurants let customers have only half a glass of water.

The break in the 20-inch main drained the city's principal reservoir. The cause was undetermined.

THIRTY DIE IN 520 ACCIDENTS IN YEAR'S TIME

Reckless Driver Rapped In State Patrol's Report for '39

166 ARRESTED ON THIS ONE CHARGE

Route 14 Is Principal Accident Zone For District

The Salem state highway patrol during 1939 investigated on district highways a total of 520 traffic accidents, which, according to Corp. W. E. Arey, resulted in deaths to 20 persons, injuries to scores of others, and property damage amounting to $130,554.

Of the traffic victims, 15 were passengers in automobiles, seven were drivers, while eight others were pedestrians. Twenty-six of the 30 victims were killed outright.

A total of 201 of the 520 mishaps "covered" by the state patrolmen were accidents in which one or more persons were hurt.

There were 63 arrests as the aftermath of accidents during the year, Corp. Arey's annual report discloses. Fifty-five convictions were obtained. A total of 339 other arrests were made by the officers during the year and only two of the defendant motorists were found not guilty.

War On Reckless Drivers

Reckless driving, which was cited as the cause for many of the accidents, resulted in the arrest of 166 motorists. Most of these drivers were arrested for reckless driving before they had a chance to cause an accident," as the patrolmen put it.

The detailed, yet interesting patrol report, shows that most of the accidents investigated by the local sub-station occurred on Route 14, east and northwest of the city. Routes 62, 45 and 30 are other principal scenes of automobile collisions.

A total of 118 crashes were reported on Route 14, 83 on Route 62, 63 on Route 45, and 56 on Route 30.

A pin-dotted map at the patrol barracks on S. Lincoln ave. shows that during 1939 a total of 64 accidents occurred on the straight stretch of Route 62, between Salem and Alliance. Five of these mishaps were fatal, while injuries resulted from 17 others.

There were 21 accidents on Route 62 north of Salem to Canfield, but none was fatal.

There were 27 crashes between Salem and Washingtonville on Route 14, and between Washingtonville and Columbiana, and 40, including seven fatalities, on the same route between Columbiana and East Palestine.

Forty-seven mishaps occurred on Route 14 northwest of Salem, while Route 45, north of the city, listed 14. Route 45, between Salem and Lisbon, was the scene of 53 automobile smash-ups. None resulted fatally.

Mishaps were scattered along Routes 45 and 30 south of Lisbon, but Route 30, from West Point to Turn to THIRTY, Page 8.

TWO ARE HURT AS AUTO SKIDS

Car Slips On Curve and Over Embankment On Salem-Lisbon Rd.

Two persons were injured at 10 p. m. Sunday when an automobile driven by Donald F. Gosser, 21, of North Jackson, skidded on a curve five and one-half miles south of Salem on the Lisbon rd., and rolled over a 12-foot embankment.

Gosser escaped unhurt, but Miss Eleanor Duke, 19, of Youngstown, suffered a possible fractured right ankle. She is in City hospital.

Helen Stedlock, 21, of Hubbard, another passenger in Gosser's car, was treated at the hospital for lacerations of the right leg and forehead. State Patrolman James White said.

Dr. Cobbs to Speak At Medical Meeting

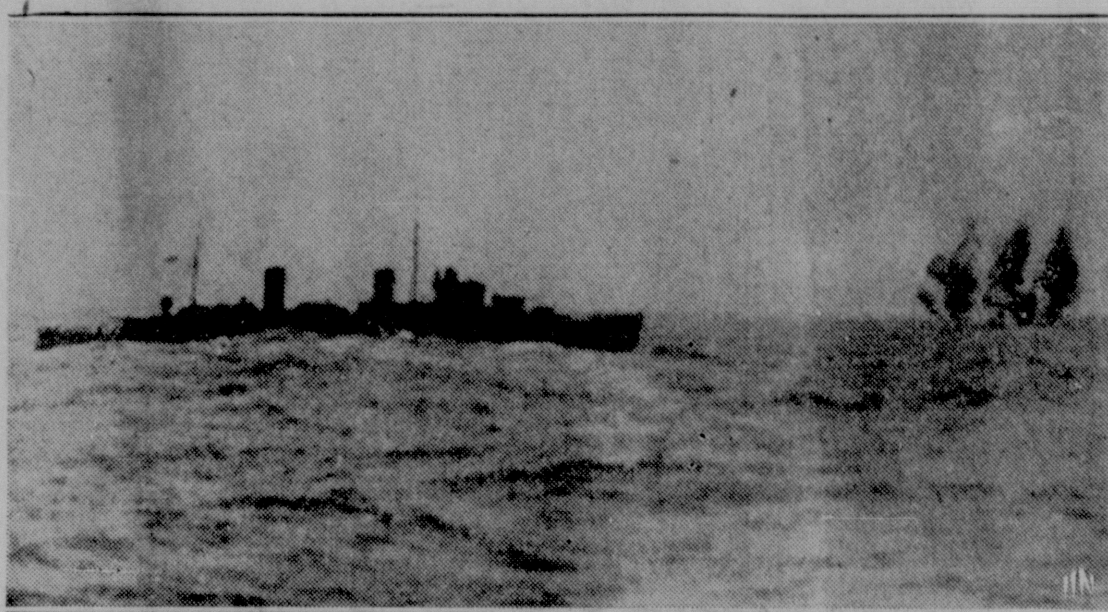

Dr. Lea A. Cobbs of Salem will speak on "Some Aspects of X-ray Therapy" when the Columbiana County Medical society holds its first meeting of the new year at 9 p. m. Tuesday in the American Legion hall, Lisbon.

321 In Jail In '39

LISBON, Jan. 8.—There were 321 prisoners in the county jail during the past year, 216 less than the previous year, Sheriff Harry L. Gosney said today.

Deputies made 316 arrests in 1939 compared to 417 in '38 and responded to 1,082 calls, against 1,274 for the previous year.

British Warship Escapes Nazi Bomb

An officer aboard a British destroyer made this dramatic photo during a battle between warships of the British navy and a Nazi air fleet. A German bomb bursts as it hits the North Sea, wide of its target. The planes, seeking to break the British blockade, were kept at a high altitude by anti-aircraft fire and scored no hits, according to the admiralty.

SHORT SESSION OF JURY SEEN

25 Cases, Including Salem Slaying, Will Be Considered

LISBON, Jan. 8.—The January grand jury opened this morning what was expected to be one of the shortest sessions in recent years. The jurors expect to wind up work on the 25 cases to be considered within four days.

Sixty-five witnesses have been subpoenaed, it was announced.

The foremost case on the docket is that of George Ludwig of Salem, held on a murder charge in connection with the hatchet slaying of Andrew Drotzoff in Salem last July. Ludwig's case was continued by the September grand jury.

Seven talesmen were drawn this morning in order to complete the jury after the original venire of 20 prospective jurors was exhausted. Eleven of the original panel were excused while one failed to appear.

Selected from the original list were Bert Davis of R. D. 1, Lisbon; Edward Jenkins of Winona, David McIntosh and Mrs. Louise Evans of East Liverpool; Thomas Moore and James Irwin of East Palestine; Mrs. Grace Bell of Rogers, William Kegelmeyer of Leetonia.

The seven talesmen were Mrs. Clark Cable, Charles McKenzie, Mrs. Eva Waggle, John Noble, Mrs. Will Virden, George Adams and Mrs. Roy Lewton, all of Lisbon.

Noble, former county clerk of courts, was named jury foreman by Common Pleas Judge W. F. Lones.

Watchman Replaced By Flasher Signals

COLUMBIANA, Jan. 8.—The Pennsylvania railroad is installing automatic flasher signals at the South Elm st. crossing, eliminating the crossing watchman service established there for many years.

The move was discouraged by village officials, but the company had the approval of the state utility commission.

Famed Pianist, Here Tuesday Night, Opens Concert Series

Henrietta Schumann To Be Heard At School Auditorium

Henrietta Schumann, distinguished young American pianist, who is appearing here tomorrow night, under the auspices of the Northern Columbiana Concert association, has acquired a wide following in this country and in South America.

According to officers of the association, her appearance is one of the most important of the series to be presented during the organization's first season. She will play at 8:30 p. m. in the High school auditorium.

Miss Schumann is to appear in other communities in this area during the week. On Monday night she is to play in Ambridge, Pa. On Wednesday night she is scheduled to appear in New Philadelphia and on Thursday night in Hanover.

Miss Schumann has been praised by critics in New York, Detroit, St. Louis, Rochester, Syracuse, Cincinnati, Montreal and in foreign cities where she has appeared as recitalist and soloist with leading symphony orchestras.

She began her studies at the age of eight and within the first six months gave her first public recital. In spite of her youth she possesses an extensive repertoire, including at least 70 concerti.

Flooding of West End Park Problem; Water Seeps Away

Efforts of city officials to flood the West End skating pond in order that skating enthusiasts might enjoy the winter sport, have not proven very successful.

Mayor Norman Phillips and Ed Sheen, president of the park commission, explained today that most of the water which had been turned into the pond had drained through the ground. Lack of rain and heavy snow has left the ground dry and despite the fact that a main was opened up and water from Buttermilk run was turned in, the water continues to disappear into the ground.

However, certain sections of the pond are frozen and yesterday approximately 75 persons enjoyed skating.

BAPTISTS PLAN CONCLAVE JAN. 15

Salem Members to Attend Convocation In Youngstown Next Week

More than 100 Salem Baptists are expected to attend an important convocation in the First Baptist church in Youngstown Monday, Jan. 15.

Dr. Elmer A. Fridell of Berkley, Calif., president of the Northern Baptist convention, will be the principal speaker.

Dr. Fridell, as president of the convention, represents 7,500 churches with a total membership of 1,407,501.

The convention is composed of churches adhering to the congregational form of church government, and emphasizing regenerated church membership, being linked together in associations and state conventions, having headquarters in New York City, its publication society in Philadelphia, and its state office in Granville, the home of Denison University.

The Northern Baptist convention has as its associates, the Southern Baptist convention with more than one million members, the National Baptist convention with about three and one-half million members, making a total of over 10,000,000 Baptists in the United States.

Local Baptists are enthusiastic in looking forward to the convocation as the Trumbull Baptist association has just celebrated its centennial in its annual meeting held in Warren, and was honored in having the Ohio Baptist convention convene in the First Baptist temple recently.

Dr. Fridell will have associated with him a strong team of workers and speakers who will discuss the general theme, "The Mission of the Church in a Distressed World."

The convocation will be an all affairs, reaching its climax in a mass meeting in the evening.

HOWARD BEVIS NEW O.S.U. HEAD

Harvard Professor, Former Ohio Supreme Court Judge, Chosen President Today

COLUMBUS, Jan. 8.—Howard L. Bevis, 55, Harvard university professor and former Ohio supreme court judge, was elected president of Ohio State university today.

The election, by unanimous vote of the board of trustees, filled a vacancy that had existed since July 1, 1938, when Dr. George W. Rightmire retired and precipitated the greatest hunt for a president in the history of Ohio State, fifth largest university in the nation.

Bevis accepted immediately and will take over the post as soon as he can do so conveniently.

Mrs. Art Is Injured As Auto Overturns

Mrs. Norman Art, 25, of Alliance, was treated at the Central Clinic for lacerations of the right knee, suffered when her automobile overturned on Route 62, near Damascus, at 12:10 p. m. today.

The state patrol reported Mrs. Art was forced to drive into a ditch while attempting to pass two trucks. The second truck started to pass the first at the time Mrs. Art started around.

Weds On Credit

BRAZIL, Ind.—John M. Riddell, a construction worker, was arrested on his honeymoon charged with giving worthless checks.

Burchfield Work Among Entries In Youngstown Show

Water colors by Charles Burchfield of Buffalo, former Salem resident and one of the nation's outstanding painters, are among the entries in the Butler Art institute's 1940 show at Youngstown.

"Appalachian Highway" is one of the work, which Burchfield is exhibiting. Critics hail it as a painting of simple directness, showing the simplicity of design with which Burchfield achieves a well-composed landscape.

The picture portrays a typical U. S. highway, boarded by a guard rail on one side, winding through a heavily wooded section of the Appalachian mountains.

LOUIS RAYMOND 2ND IN CONTEST

Wins Place As Alternate For State Oratory Event

James Wentley of Ashtabula county won the district Prince of Peace declamation contest at Alliance Sunday night, while Louis Raymond, Jr., of Salem placed second.

Wentley spoke on the subject, "The Testimony of Youth," while Raymond's subject was "The Dignity of Man."

The contest was held in the First Methodist church at Alliance with Rev. Edwin R. Romig, pastor, as chairman. Dr. Charles Burgess Ketcham, president of Mount Union college, acted as judge.

The Salem youth, winner of the Columbiana county contest, will be alternate to the state contest which will be held early in February.

There were seven contestants in last night's event, two from Wayne county, and one each from Ashtabula, Mahoning, Columbiana and Summit counties.

LISBON HOLDING WEEK OF PRAYER

Congregations Hold First Service at Presbyterian Church

LISBON, Jan. 8.—A "Week of Prayer" services are being observed in the co-operating Protestant churches here this week. The initial service was held last evening in the Presbyterian church when Rev. R. T. Campbell, pastor of the Methodist church, spoke to the union congregation on "When Thou Prayest."

The services, which start at 7:30 each evening, follow the general theme of the Lord's prayer. The remainder of the services will be as follows:

This evening, Rev. J. Morgan Cox, pastor of the Presbyterian church, will preach in the Methodist church on the subject of "Reverence."

Services will be held Tuesday evening in the Christian church, when Rev. Carl Bormuth, pastor of St. Jacob's Reformed church, will preach on "Our Daily Bread."

On Wednesday evening the service will be held in the United Presbyterian church with Rev. Theodore Cord, pastor of the Christian church, bringing the message on "Temptation."

The service on Thursday evening will be held in St. Jacob's Reformed church, north of Lisbon. Rev. J. M. Cameron, pastor of the United Presbyterian church, will speak on "Forgiveness."

The final service in the series will be held in the Presbyterian church Friday evening when Rev. Campbell again bringing the message on "The Family Altar."

University Plans Institute On Law

City Solicitor Henry L. Reese has been appointed alumni chairman to organize attorneys of Salem and vicinity to attend the institute sponsored by the School of Law of Western Reserve university at Hotel Allerton in Cleveland Monday, Jan. 15, beginning at 11 a. m.

Judge Carl V. Weygandt of the Ohio supreme court will preside. Speakers will include Roland J. Sanger of the Reserve faculty, Loren Edmunds Souers of Canton, and Professors Fletcher Reed Andrews and C. M. Finkrock, also of the School of Law of Western Reserve university.

Officers of the organization include: President, C. L. Wetzel of Lisbon; vice president, Everett Rich of Salem; secretary-treasurer, Ed Laughlin of East Liverpool.

Telling the World

JOPLIN, Mo.—Police Chief Barney Walker discovered that conversation around the sergeant's desk was going out over the police radio.

KENNEDY TAKES OVER DUTIES AS SERVICE CHIEF

Names Four New Appointees To Service Department

J. H. CAMPBELL OUT AS METER READER

Job Is Given to George Ulrich As New Payroll List Is Posted

Charles T. Kennedy took office today as city service director, replacing Frank K. Wilson who had held over an extra week after Mayor Norman Phillips took office Jan. 1.

Wilson, an appointee of former Mayor George A. Harhoff stayed on the job as service chief in accordance with provisions of a state law.

Kennedy was sworn in today by Mayor Phillips.

The service director posted a new payroll list at the city garage effective today, which listed four new appointees to service department jobs.

James H. Campbell, meter reader for the water works department, was replaced by George Ulrich. Campbell was a Harhoff appointee.

Tony Pasco, John Caulfield and Russell Thomas are the other new workers.

Pasco and Caulfield have been assigned to jobs in the distribution and maintenance department, while Thomas will work with the street department crew.

Included on the payroll sheet are Sam Pasco, H. A. Peters, George Matthews, Dan Flukas, Ed Leggett, Chris Miller, William Miller, Charles Dunlap, Clarence Libert, A. Ritchie and Elmer Boals, all of whom were previously employed.

NO DECISION ON JAIL VOTE YET

Commissioners Considering Putting Levy Proposal Before Electors Again In May

Austin I. Getz of Salem, one of the three Columbiana county commissioners, said today that, although it was highly probable that a tax levy or bond issue for a new county jail would be up for a vote at the primaries next May, the commissioners had not decided definitely on the proposal.

The century-old jail at Lisbon has been ordered torn down Feb. 1 by State Fire Marshal Ray R. Gill. The county's prisoners are expected to be boarded by Mahoning county. Columbiana county voters in November rejected a half-mill tax levy for a new jail.

McAllister Lands Trapshoot Trophy

R. C. McAllister of Salem successfully defended his Columbiana county trapshooting title for the third straight time Sunday, winning a 50-bird shoot to retain possession of a diamond pin, emblematic of the county championship.

Scores of competing marksmen were unusually low due to cold weather and a high wind which handicapped shooting accuracy. McAllister won the shoot with a score of 38. Other scores were: George Baillie, 34; J. Close, 33; D. B. McCune, 33; James Carpenter, 30; Dr. G. A. Roose, 24.

The victory, in addition to giving McAllister possession of the diamond pin, also provided the Salem shooter enough points to win a trapshooting derby which has been in progress at the club for several months. Dr. Roose finished second in the derby, while N. C. Hunt, Randall Hamilton, James Gilmore and J. Close tied for third.

MASHING SOME HOT POTATOES

Sen. Taft's rebuttal to President Roosevelt's argument that the national budget can't be balanced deserves attention equal to that given the annual budget message. As a leading contender for the Republican party's presidential nomination, the senator has semi-official status; his recommendations reflect party policy.

By challenging him to tell how the budget could be balanced, Mr. Roosevelt handed Sen. Taft a double handful of politically hot potatoes. In his speech before the Chicago Bar association Friday night Sen. Taft seems to have mashed them much more comfortably than the President anticipated. He makes five specific proposals.

First, the President and his advisers must believe that the budget should be balanced, which means they must abandon the policy of trying to support the national economy with artificially high spending of public money—the pump priming theory. In his budget message, Mr. Roosevelt says this policy still is in effect. It denies intention to balance the budget.

Second, there must be a budget committee of non-political persons devoted wholly to the proposition that the budget must be balanced and instructed to find places where expenditures can be curtailed. Sen. Taft believes numerous bureaus and agencies can be eliminated and names some.

Third, certain changes in administrative policy must be made. Sen. Taft grabs the hottest potato of all by proposing that direct relief and work relief be administered by a single local agency, handling both employables and unemployables, with federal assistance equal to about two thirds of the entire cost. He contends that if this were done the same amount of relief could be made available at much lower cost.

Fourth, the public works program must be reduced to a normal amount each year, with all grants to localities for public works ended. "But it requires leadership toward individual self-reliance and common sense in government," Sen. Taft warns, referring to the fact the budget never can be balanced while the administration continues to believe it should be kept out of balance for pump priming purposes.

The fifth and last recommendation is another hot potato. Sen. Taft is not ready to consent to the proposition that national defense has become a sacred cow. He thinks army and navy expenditures should be examined critically, with an eye to national defense needs as well as an eye to the desires of generals and admirals.

If these things are done, explains Sen. Taft, the government's total expenditures can be reduced from the level of approximately eight and a half billion dollars (in the new 1941 budget) to a level of seven billion dollars, which happens to be President Roosevelt's own recommendation (in the budget message of Jan. 3, 1938) for a reasonable spending total. If taxes, estimated at five and one half billion dollars for the next fiscal year, do not produce the difference, then additional levies will have to be authorized. But, Sen. Taft insists, the President was right two years ago when he said seven billion dollars is enough to spend in any one year.

The senator's rebuttal to the proposition that the budget can't be balanced cannot be ignored. It is based on a single unassailable fact—that the budget must be balanced. The New Deal can't argue on that point.

A GOOD START

The new city administration got off to a good start by first ordering that work on the skating pond in the west end by speeded up and then by reorganizing the police department.

Both are popular moves. City council had appropriated money for the skating pond in plenty of time for the work to have been completed before freezing weather. Delay denied the skaters some fun during the holidays when school boys and girls were on vacation.

Reorganization of the department gives the chief of police and his officers an opportunity to do more effective work. The new instructions imply moral support for this department which has been sadly lacking in recent years. The rotating system, with its seniority rules, deals as impartially as possible with each officer and removes favoritism, the bane of any good organization.

Restoration of the motorcycle and the school boy patrol system will be made possible by the department changes. Neither should have been abandoned. The motorcycle has its place in almost daily use, instead of being stored away. The school patrol, once a most efficient branch of the police work, again is to become an important part of safety efforts in the traffic department. The school officials will welcome this, and the parents and public at large will applaud the new move.

Common sense has dictated the first two moves of the new city administration. That's about all that is necessary for a successful administration.

M. L. DAVEY WILL HATE THIS

The state finance director's report, showing that Ohio finished 1939 with a surplus of $2,425,000 in the treasury may be expected to elicit the customary scream of anguish from Martin L. Davey.

Mr. Davey, if he hasn't done so already, will shout far and wide that "it ain't so." He will produce figures by the peck to show that instead of a neat surplus there's an enormous deficit. We don't know where Mr. Davey gets his figures, but they're always different.

He will deny that Gov. Bricker has been able to save a penny and will repeat that M. L. Davey was the penny-pinching governor Ohio ever had. He will charge high jinks and juggling in state finances.

If Mr. Davey's in good form he will sneer that Gov. Bricker is playing politics and pretending to save money at the expense of widows and orphans—though bear in mind, he will warn, that the governor's just pretending, not actually accomplishing.

All of which will be mildly interesting as proof that Mr. Davey still hasn't become reconciled to the fact that he isn't in Columbus any more and that the governor who is in Columbus is making a name for himself as an economy advocate at Mr. Davey's political expense.

THE STARS SAY:

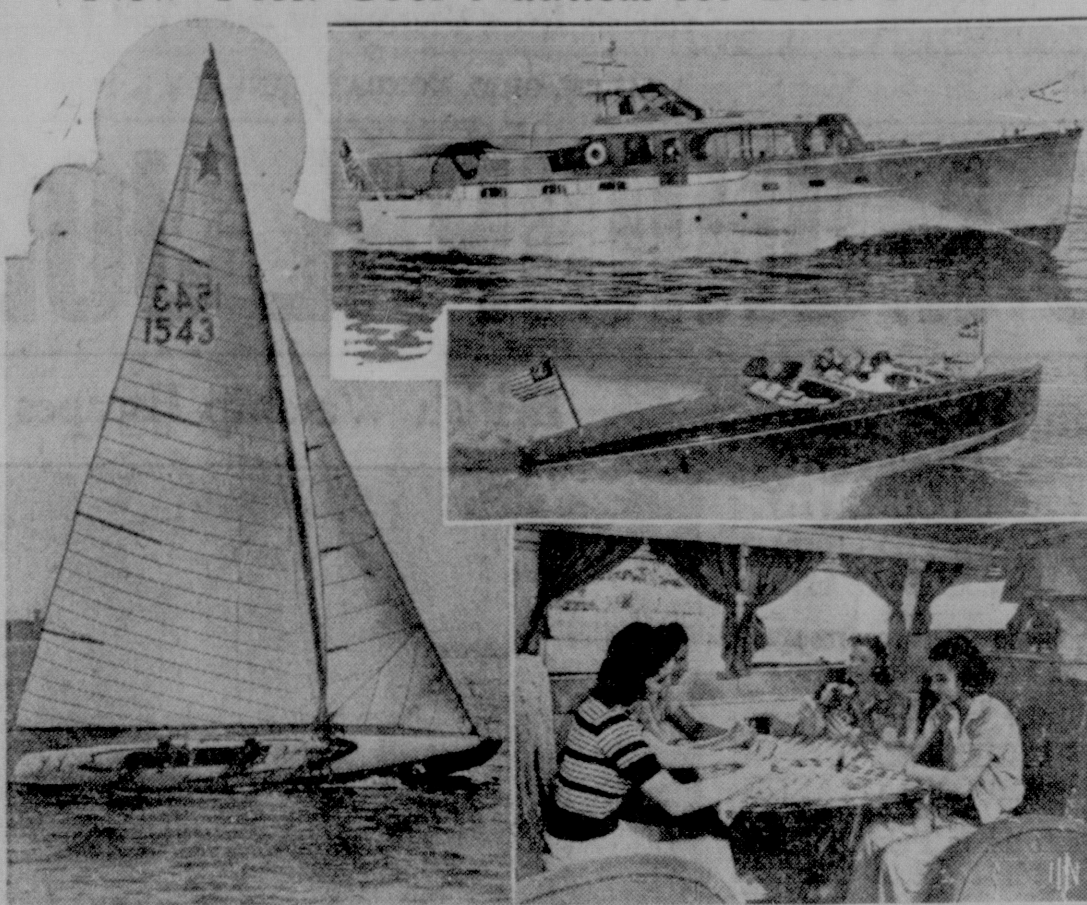

For Tuesday, January 9

A DAY of strange adventures and memorable experiences is the augury based on the predominant lunar and mutual aspects. An element of the startling, unforeseen and dramatic determines events, which probably involve radical upheavals, new objectives and plans, with a complete change of scene as well as associates. This combination, while drastic and far-reaching in consequence, is likely to bring much unlooked-for happiness and benefit, if managed with calmness and discretion. Elderly opposition must be placated. Romance seems to fill the air with glamor.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a "devastating" year, with swift and dramatic events moving to the fore. These may disrupt old obligations, objectives and ties for new, thrilling and breath-taking experiences of the utmost significance in shaping the future fortune and destiny. Romance or some other high adventure is on the tapis, calling for extreme prudence, wisdom and compromise, with forces set to resist such glamorous programs. The climax of personal happiness is imminent.

A child born on this day may be unusually talented, progressive, ambitious, original and independent, probably attaining conspicuous position or renown in the realm of romance and adventure, science or invention.

New York Goes Nautical for Boat Show

Europe's Medicinal Baths May Be Produced At Home

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

What is your opinion of the medicinal baths which are so widely used in Europe? Can these be imitated in an average American home?

The most famous of the European baths were the Nauheim baths and the Woodhall baths in England. The "Sprudel" water of Nauheim was a naturally warm, salty solution, which was carbonated. The temperature was about 30 degrees. It was used for functional heart troubles and mild failure. It was also accompanied by graduated exercises given by the brothers Schott. The theory was that the impingement of the carbonated particles on the skin stimulated the circulation and toned the heart and blood vessels. Artificial Nauheim baths can be prepared in any bathroom in the United States and the ingredients are sold in package form. The baths can be imitated with the use of 22 ounces of sodium acid sulfate and 32 ounces of sodium bicarbonate added to 40 gallons of warm water at a temperature of 93 degrees F. A rubber bath mat should be used in the bottom of the tub in order to prevent erosion of the enamel.

Dr. Clending will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

The Woodhall bath in Lincolnshire, England, can be copied by using very small amounts of potassium iodide and potassium bromide in water at average temperature. It is doubtful whether any absorption of these materials occurs through the skin while an individual is in the bath.

Are lie detectors recognized as infallible?

To me the name "lie detector" is a purely imaginative and fictional term. I do not believe that any court has yet judged a criminal case solely on the evidence of a lie detector. In my opinion, courts are certainly not justified in accepting such evidence.

Translation of emotional reactions into physiological terms is by no means standardized. A number of polygraphs and psychographs and photopolygraphs are on the market but, no agreement exists as to their reliability.

Those interested should refer to a book called Lying and Its Detection, published by the University of Chicago Press, and written by John A. Larson. The latest publication is by William Marston, called

Held in Murder

Sam De Leo

Accused by his wife, according to Chicago police, Sam De Leo was arrested in connection with the murder of Mrs. Nellie Sharp, his mother-in-law, whose battered body was found in an abandoned trunk.

The Lie Detector Test, published by Richard R. Smith, 1938.

Questions and Answers

B. E. M.: "What is the cause of a fungus condition of the lungs? Is there any cure for it?"

Answer—There are a good many fungi which can infect the lungs although individual instances in human beings are quite rare. The most serious ones are those due to the yeast, blastomycetes, and to the ray fungus, actinomycetes. Milder infections with the streptothrix, aspergillus, Vincent's infection and other mycelium-forming fungi occur. They invade the lungs probably directly, just as tuberculosis does. The milder ones are not difficult of cure.

C. R.: "What do you suggest as the best mild cathartic? I have been using psyllium seed. Are cascara tablets the same as the liquid?"

Answer: I believe the bulk-producing cathartics are the best for regular use—liquid petrolatum, psyllium seed or agar. If psyllium seed suits you, keep on with it. Cascara is the same drug in solid or liquid form, but the liquid is much the better way to use it because the exact necessary dose can be measured—in drops.

J. C. L.: "Can pyorrhea be cured by treatment at home?"

Answer—It depends upon what degree or stage of pyorrhea is at hand. The treatment of early pyorrhea consists in getting a tough, small tooth brush and brushing the gum margins hard and systematically night and morning. The tooth powder or preparation used is unimportant; the brush is the important part. They should be brushed until you can't make them bleed. Later stages need constant removal of tartar and surgical treatment of the pus pockets.

J. F. L.: "Please advise concerning the injection treatment of hernia. I am wearing a truss that is satisfactory."

Answer—It is good in selected cases. If a truss is satisfactory, it is probably best to leave it. The injection treatment is recommended by surgeons mostly in recurrent cases.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clending has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clending, 235 E. 45th st., New York. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

"LOVE'S INTERLUDE" by -MAY-CHRISTIE

CHAPTER XXIV

Moir, giddy, felt she had better drink the strong black coffee down! She drained the last drop. And immediately a still headier feeling ran through her veins. The drab routine of life was gone. Beauty! She wanted beauty. Mad experience! Living that was poetry. What had Randall just told her? "You are a beautiful girl. That you are only live once. . . and yours is the Persian poet's doctrine. There was one verse especially that Randall would agree with."

She said: "You talk like Omar Khayyam bent towards her eagerly. He was wise. He was right."

"Dangerous. One pays—"

"Only for one's inhibitions, Moira."

"A verse—like the way you talk. Everything seemed floating, unreal. Randall—she was unconscious that she used his given name for the first time—do you remember how it runs?"

His eyes were dark flames close to her own. His voice vibrant, pleading, as he quickly pressed his advantage, quoting: "Come, fill the Cup, and in the fire of Spring Your Winter Garment of Repentance fling! The Bird of Time has but a little way to fly— And lo! the Bird is on the wing."

She said dreamily, and oddly thrilled: "That's beautiful—if it one never looks back."

"To what?"

"To what one imagined one should be. I mean—the old standards—"

He caught her hand, lifted it swiftly, palm upward, and covered it with kisses. "You darling! They're not for you and me! We're above them—beyond them. There's only the present! Let's not be foolish—let's grab it—Moira—"

The old-fashioned clock gave a long, silvery chime.

To Moira it seemed like a voice from the past, shattering the dizzy moment.

She wrenched her hand away, sprang up.

"Are we mad? Or did you put brandy in my coffee? Anyway, we'll leave now. I'll get Evelyn."

He tried to stop her, but he was aware that the clerk behind the desk would see the scuffle. A pillar and the high sides of the divan had given them semi-privacy till now.

"Moira—don't make a scene, please—wait—"

But she was gone in a rush into the bar. There were people there, chatting, sipping. But no Evelyn. No Joe Deverney. She flew to the ladies' cloakroom. It was empty. She looked into the main dining room. Then she thought struck her that the jocular girl might be sitting out in the darkness with Joe in his car.

The cold night air pulled Moira together, brought her faculties back to her in a rush of concern.

The car was empty when she found it. She recognized the license plates. Where was her friend?

Somewhere upstairs? Good heavens!

It was no time to stand on ceremony. She must find Evelyn quickly.

But there were at least a dozen rooms on the second floor. She couldn't rush from door to door, knocking . . . making herself a spectacle . . . precipitating a scandal. . .

In the darkness she heard Randall's voice, calling her.

"Quick! Round to the front entrance of the inn!"

To the desk!

No one in the hall now but the clerk. "My friend—the room number—?" trying to make her voice sound steady.

"The Blue Suite, madam. Number Nine, at the far end of the first corridor on the left after you get to the top of the stairs."

She thought, as she took them in mad haste: "If he's locked the door I'll bang on it until he lets me in!"

But the door of Number Nine yielded. It was beautifully appointed. Apparently empty. There was a little fire burning in the grate. A tall white lamp had been lighted, flinging radiance on red roses that smelled sweetly. A bucket of ice with a gold-labeled bottle was set on a table.

Perhaps Evelyn, ill, was in the bathroom? She called out: "Evelyn!" No answer. Turned the handle of an inner door. It was a cupboard. A man's hat and coat were in the cupboard! And a masculine-looking bag!

So that cad of a Deverney had deliberately planned it! She found the bathroom and switched the light on. It was empty. Should she wait for them? Had the room clerk made an error in the number? She went out into the corridor.

Hark! Someone was coming! Suspecting it was Evelyn and Joe, she'd step into this little serving pantry, the door of which was ajar. Not so embarrassing for Evelyn if it would seem that she had followed them, wanting them all to go home, not seeming to know the arrangements. . . .

Came a man's tread, alone. Peering from the shadows, Moira saw that it was Randall, evidently looking for her . . . that was natural enough . . . now he'd passed she'd slip out quickly, back to the room-clerk for the correct number.

"I think you made a mistake?" It was horribly distasteful, but best face facts—or possibilities. "Mr. Deverney's room was the one I wanted."

"Certainly, madam. Mr. and Mrs. Deverney are in the second room to the right upstairs, Number Two."

"Thank you." How meaningfully he stared!

She hurried to the room indicated.

The next few minutes were a nightmare, but summoning all her strength she managed to push the more than half-intoxicated Joe out through the door of Number Two, slam it shut in his face, turn lock and double lock, and return to Evelyn, who, fully dressed, had indeed passed out and lay sprawled on one of the twin beds.

It was impossible to wake her. Shaking couldn't do it. Nor could Joe's loud rapping and demands to be let in. "Lemme lone. Wanna sleep." Then deep, maddening snores.

Nor would Moira open the door one crack when Randall joined the other man in the corridor and begged to be allowed to help. It was kind of him, of course. Thoughtful, too, how he wanted to engage a

S.S.S. Tonic is the choice to increase the appetite...to boost energy

COUNTLESS thousands of men and women can testify to the benefits S.S.S. Tonic has brought them.

The facts are simple because of all conditions affecting the human body a low blood count is most deceptive. If you feel rundown . . . lack a keen appetite . . . have lost weight . . . don't give up until you restore those precious red-blood-cells back to normal.

S.S.S. Tonic may be just what you need to get you on the right road to health and happiness again.

In S.S.S. Tonic you go after the trouble in two ways . . . first you increase the appetite and better your stomach digestion—thus making better use of the food you eat—secondly, thin, weak, watery blood is made rich and red again thus giving you a boost in energy.

Try S.S.S. which any drug store can supply and no ethical dealer will suggest a substitute. The big 20 oz. size is a two week's treatment and represents a saving in the purchase price—S.S.S. Co.

Miss Wells And Lloyd Wiant Exchange Vows In Rites Here

Rev. R. D. Waller, pastor of the Presbyterian church, officiated at the quiet ceremony at 8 a. m. Sunday in his study which united in marriage Miss Martha Louise Wells and Lloyd D. Wiant.

The couple was unattended. Members of the immediate families were present at the ceremony.

The bride, a daughter of Mrs. Tamar E. Wells of North Lincoln street, wore a forest green velvet street frock with green and brown turtleneck and accessories. Her corsage was of orchids. Her mother was dressed in navy sheer with wine accessories and wore a corsage of pink rosebuds. Mrs. Harry Wiant, mother of the groom, wore a dusty rose crepe with black accessories and a corsage of pink rosebuds. Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Wiant left for New York City, where he is associated with the Gedex Realty Corp. They will make their home in the Green Ridge Court Apts., Green Ridge ave., White Plains, N. Y.

Mrs. Wiant, a graduate of Salem High school in the class of 1934, has been employed in the office of the National Sanitary Co.

Mr. Wiant, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wiant of the Demastus rd., was graduated from Sebring High school in 1928 and attended Mount Union college and B.S. Business school in Columbus.

Miss Warrick, Of Columbiana, Bride At Church Wedding

The First Presbyterian church in Columbiana was the scene of a beautiful wedding Saturday when Miss Ellen Jane Warrick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Warrick of Columbiana, became the bride of Howard Edwin Rask, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hans E. Rask of Lakewood.

A reception and buffet supper for 200 at the Lake hotel followed the ceremony.

Rev. John K. McDavit Jr. pastor of the church, officiated at the single ring ceremony at 4 p. m. before a large assembly of relatives and friends. The altar of the church was decorated with ferns, white pompons and calla lilies and lighted by three seven-branch candelabra.

Classmate Maid of Honor. A classmate, Miss Marjorie E. Wilkins of Lakewood, was the bride's maid of honor. Harold Jindars of Lakewood served Mr. Rask as best man. Ushers were William Peters, Kenneth Kurtsy and Donald George of Lakewood and E. H. Warrick of Columbiana.

Proceeding the ceremony, Mrs. Russell J. Barrow presented a program of organ music including "Evening Star" and "Pilgrim's Chorus" (Wagner); "I Love You Truly" (Bond); "O Promise Me" (DeKoven); and the traditional wedding marches for the processional and recessional. During the exchange of vows, soft strains of Litz's "Leibestraum" were heard.

Given By Father.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in her gown of white duchesse satin, designed princess style with sweetheart neckline, long sleeves and a fitted girle at the waist, the flared skirt having a slight train. Her veil of white bridal illusion was held by a cap of lilies-of-the-valley and orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of gardenias and lilies-of-the-valley.

The maid of honor was attired in a turquoise taffeta gown, princess style, with sweetheart neckline and velvet trim. Her headress was a tricorn halo of taffeta with velvet streamers and she carried a bouquet of Johanna Hill roses. The

Miss Cessna to Sing In Youngstown

Blouses to the Rescue

Tailored blouse collars should fit as well as a man's shirt collar, neither loose nor choking.

By PRUNELLA WOOD

OH, FOR something new in the wardrobe—and for very little money! Do it with blouses, these three sketched being top-notchers for suits or separate skirts. The shirt, top, and the dressy model, bottom, are in pure dye silk, the latter unbelievably sheer, and, what's more, styled in a dozen colors as well as black or white. Its fagotting is handmade and the buttons are tiny crystal balls. The top blouse is stitched and equally smart with the collar open. Settle on white or one of several shades.

The center blouse is a darling in white ribbed pique, with cut-out embroidery finished on net across the boat neck and on the sleeves.

Thoroughly Modern Plumbing Conveniences Lacking In Many Homes

SURVEY IS MADE BY U. S. BUREAU

Many of the Older Homes Have Not Been Brought Up to Date

Running water and the hot and cold tap for a morning bath or shower do not appear to be as commonly available in American homes as they are generally thought to be. The bureau of home economics of the U. S. department of agriculture, searching for plumbing facts in 8,414 homes in the north central portion of the country, has found that even the kitchen sink with drain in either cities or villages until incomes were quite well up in the high brackets. On farms not even at the highest income levels 40 per cent of the families have this ordinary convenience.

The survey carried out by the bureau dealt only with white non-relief families that included husband and wife, both native-born, so that the facts brought forth are more optimistic than if they dealt with the total population. The kitchen sink was, as a rule, the plumbing convenience first installed in homes, followed by the indoor toilet, and, last, the running hot water.

Today nearly all new buildings have all these conveniences, but as J. R. Stratton, S. Broadway plumbing contractor points out, there are still many older homes with very antique or very few modern conveniences, right here in Salem. The fact is, those older buildings can at the present time be modernized at a cost that rentals will soon pay for. Young people looking for homes to rent demand these modern sanitary conveniences. It's just good business to modernize the older homes.

GOOD STEERING SAFETY FACTOR

Klein Can Restore Auto To Manufacturer's Specifications

If your car shimmies, wanders, weaves or is hard to steer, or if you notice front tires do not wear evenly, it is because wheel alignment is faulty.

It may be that the frame is bent or twisted, an axle out of line or the spindle or tie rod bent. Pumping against the curb, or hitting chuck holes in the pavement, and minor collisions may cause these twists.

Matt Klein at 313 Newarden st., has scientific gauges that show whether or not your car is out of line and exactly where the trouble lies.

This equipment is known as the "Bear system" of wheel alignment. It is a hydraulic press, the powerful hydraulic presses, the twists and turns are straightened to manufacturer's specifications.

Charts that show the exact angles of all parts of all makes of cars are a part of the Bear system. That's why Klein can do the work right the first time. There is no guess work. If the part fits right, the gauges prove it.

Unnecessary wear on tires soon costs the motorist more than having his car put in perfect alignment. And this material cost is nothing compared to the safety feature of perfect steering.

Neglect of wheel alignment has caused many serious accidents, accidents sometimes which no amount of money can remedy.

Now that streets are slippery, be sure your car is 100 per cent safe.

FLUID DRIVE IN CHRYSLER '8'S'

Use of New Principle of Transmitting Power Is Extended

Chrysler's famous fluid drive, an entirely new principle of transmitting power from engine to rear wheels, is now available on all of the company's eight-cylinder models, according to an announcement by the Smith garage, local Chrysler dealer. On the Traveler, New Yorker and Saratoga lines, it is listed as extra equipment at a cost of only $78. On the Crown Imperial it continues as standard equipment.

The extension of this increasingly popular feature to the Traveler, lowest-priced of the Chrysler eights, at this nominal extra cost will be welcome news to motorists who have been thoroughly sold on its virtues but heretofore have felt that it was beyond the reach of their budgets.

First introduced on the Chrysler Custom Imperial in 1930, the success of fluid drive has been amazing. Although only a little more than a year has elapsed since it made this, its first appearance on any American passenger car, it has won the favor of hundreds of owners and the percentage of car orders on which it is specified is rapidly increasing. Now that it is available on this low-priced eight this percentage is bound to be further augmented.

The outstanding advantage of fluid drive is that the car may be driven in high gear under all ordinary conditions, with the clutch and gearshift as completely forgotten as if they did not exist. This advantage particularly appeals to women drivers, who find it a relief to be able to concentrate their attention solely on the throttle, brake and steering wheel.

Another advantage is that while clutch and gear-shift are not needed except under exceptional conditions, the driver nevertheless retains complete control over the action of the engine and also retains the "feel" of the car. It might be said that the fluid drive provides all gears yet eliminates all gear changes, manual or mechanical. The action is exactly like that of steam or electric power in its flexibility and smoothness, with the entire drive mechanism responding instantly to the pressure of the driver's foot, a personal and constant control.

Added smoothness of performance and a great reduction in wear and tear on the drive train and engine, through the absorption of all engine irregularities in the fluid which transmits the power, are additional benefits.

WINTER BRINGS SOOT AND DIRT

Paris Cleaners Will Aid In Preserving Home Cleanliness

There are few times during the year, probably, when the woman of the house really appreciates the services of a modern, thoroughly experienced dry cleaner as much as she does at the present.

Winter weather, arriving the first of the year, is here definitely, after a late start. There ensued a period of "forced firing" in the furnace room in the basement, and this is still under way.

Smoke has billowed from chimneys for many days and will continue to do so for many more days before it's warm enough to think of spring.

Regardless of how tight the home is, it is difficult to keep out soot and dust particles. Rugs, curtains and drapes suffer as a result and they must be given constant attention so they will not be damaged permanently.

Clothing becomes grimy and soiled. Cutting grit becomes enmeshed in the fabric. There is little, if anything to be done about it, except to call in the cleaner. And this is the most judicious thing that can be done.

Frequent cleaning restores and revives the garment. As a result, it is given more life and money spent in cleaning really is returned. The Paris is equipped to handle any type of work and it stands back of every job.

NOW IS THE TIME ...

QUAKERS FACE ALLIANCE, RAYEN THIS WEEK

SALEM CAGERS SPANK CHANEY FOR EASY WIN

Youngstown Team Offers Little Opposition to Quakers

Back in the win column after spanking Youngstown Chaney, 41 to 24 Saturday night, an encouraged Salem High school basketball team looked forward today to a pair of games this week.

The Quakers will invade Memorial hall at Mount Union college Wednesday night to meet Alliance High's Aviators in their fifth game of the current season and will face Youngstown Rayen in their sixth game on local hardwoods Saturday night.

The triumph over Youngstown Chaney's Ramblers snapped a three game losing streak for the Quakers and gave them their second victory of the 1939-40 season.

Appearing weak on defense and lacking a polished offensive attack, Chaney offered the Quakers little opposition. The Ramblers never threatened after falling eight points behind in the first quarter.

The Quakers rang up six field goals and one free throw to take a 13 to 5 lead in the opening period, and counted six field goals and three foul shots in the second quarter to hold a 28 to 17 edge at halftime.

Increasing their lead from 11 to 17 points in the third quarter, the Quakers tallied nine points to Chaney's three. The scoring was even in the fourth period with both teams counting four points.

Cocher Herbert H. Brown used 10 Salem players in the game and permitted the reserves to see action throughout most of the fourth quarter. All but one of the 10 players broke into the scoring.

Center Les Knepp, playing an alert game under the baskets, led the Salem point-making with four field goals and a pair of free throws. Glenn McLaughlin, veteran guard, who played a brilliant game at Dover Friday night, continued his fine all-around performance, capably directing the Salem offense on several clever and well-executed floor maneuvers. McLaughlin tallied nine points, one less than Knepp.

Lead Chaney Guard Norwood and Forward Herstick accounted for 19 of Chaney's 24 points. Norwood, an unorthodox shooter who fires the ball straight at the bankboard, using no arch, hit four field goals and two free throws for 10 points. Herstick counted nine markers.

Chaney opened the game with a zone defense, but quickly changed to man-to-man style after the Quakers consistently broke through their zone set-up in the first period.

The Quakers' foul shooting was an improvement over their poor performance at Dover where they made only six of 18 free throws. They converted nine of 16 free shots against Chaney.

The Salem reserves also came through with a victory in the preliminary game, topping Chaney reserves, 30 to 24. McGaffie and Cozad shared scoring honors for the Salem subs with eight points apiece.

Favor Shorter Schedules For High School Squads

State Association To Poll Principals To Decide On Limiting Athletic Programs

COLUMBUS, Jan. 8.—Shorter football and basketball schedules for Ohio high schools to safeguard the health of immature athletes were recommended today by the State High School Athletic Association.

Principals of 1,141 member schools will be polled on proposals to limit football schedules to eight or nine games and pre-tournament basketball seasons to 20 contests, Athletic Commissioner H. R. Townsend declared.

The principals also will be asked to decide whether to continue post-season charity, all-star or "bowl" games.

Definite action on the questions will be taken Feb. 3 at the state athletic board's next meeting.

Schedules for the 1940 football campaign, most of which already are set, would not be affected by the limitations, Townsend said.

Last year many high schools played 12 game football schedules, and Toledo Walte competed in 11, including the "Buckeye Bowl" game in Columbus. The Waterloo Class B basketball champions played 50 games in one season five years ago.

The board approved the transfer of Lancaster from 14 central to the southeastern district, making 17 teams appearing in the Class A basketball district tournament at Athens.

C. H. Jones, principal of Wellston High school, was elected president of the board, succeeding H. W. Emswiler of Columbus Central. E. J. Weikel of Braceville was named vice president.

The Trinity Lutherans and Episcopalians, unbeaten leaders of the Church Basketball league, clashed at the Memorial building last Saturday with the Lutherans gaining an 11 to 9 victory to take over sole possession of first place.

The victory was the Lutherans' fourth in a row. It was the Episcopalians' first defeat in four games.

The Emmanuel Lutherans, paced by Girscht, who tallied 18 points, trounced the Christians, 49 to 14, for their fourth win in five games.

A close game between St. Paul and the Baptists was won by the Baptists, 20 to 18, after an overtime period. The contest was extended into overtime when the score was tied at 18-all at the close of the regulation four periods.

The Methodists chalked up their third victory against two defeats by spanking the Friends, 25 to 13. Held to one field goal and one free throw, A. M. E. Zion cagers suffered their fourth straight defeat as they fell before the Presbyterians, 34 to 3.

CONTRACT TIME HERE AGAIN IN DIAMOND RANKS

Dizzy Dean Leads Hold-out Squad; Reds Have 14 Players Signed

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—Like a siren of spring, Dizzy Dean's hold-out squawk over the weekend aroused slumbering baseball fans to the fact that contract time was here again.

In the next week or two the documents with the dotted lines will have been mailed to just about every eligible major leaguer, but the chant of "O'le Diz" isn't likely to get much of a chorus.

For one thing a lot of players, including several perennial members of the "beef" trust, already are signed.

Championship clubs are popularly supposed to face the most trouble rounding their players into line, but the Cincinnati Reds at this early date have 14 under contract for 1940 and the New York Yankees, who won't put their papers into the mail till next week, aren't expecting much fuss.

The first of the Reds to sign up was Third Baseman Bill Werber, who has a pretty practical opinion of his own value, and one of the first was Paul Derringer, the big pitcher who used to be quarrelsome about his figures.

No Hesitation Pitcher Bucky Walters, the National league's most valuable player, and First Baseman Frank McCormick slapped their names on two-year contracts without the slightest hesitation.

Paul Waner, the Pittsburgh Pirates' persistent holdout, jumped to terms last November. This action wasn't because Waner had no talking point, for he batted .328 last year and rated fourth in the National league.

The Cleveland Indians have Bob Feller, Mel Harder and Jeff Heath signed and sealed—and they were about the only three that might have been expected to give the Tribe trouble. Feller was reported to have been given $25,000. Whatever it was caused President Alva Bradley to remark he didn't know whether "we signed Feller or he signed us."

The Boston Red Sox gave Joe Cronin another five year manager contract last September and followed up this coup by signing Ted Williams, Jimmie Fox, Bob Doerr and Jim Tabor, four better than fair faces, for the 1940 campaign.

The Detroit Tigers already have Charley Gehringer and the New York Giants Karl Hubbell as bell wethers for their flocks.

In a preliminary game, the Baptists upset the Emmanuel Lutherans, 27 to 14. George Baillie led the Baptists with 11 points, while John Girscht paced the Emmanuel with 10 markers.

The Salem quintet fell two points behind in the first period and trailed by seven points, 22 to 15, at halftime. Canton held an eight-point lead at the close of the third quarter and staved off a last period Salem rally to win.

Matt Wagner and Mike Linder paced Salem scoring, the former collecting 11 points and the latter 10.

In a preliminary game, the Baptists upset the Emmanuel Lutherans, 27 to 14. George Baillie led the Baptists with 11 points, while John Girscht paced the Emmanuel with 10 markers.

START THE NEW YEAR RIGHT BY PURCHASING A HOME OF YOUR OWN

This good six-room home is located in one of Salem's best north side residential areas. Completely modern in every respect, it has four rooms and bath on first floor, two rooms on second floor. House newly papered and decorated throughout, new linoleum in bathroom and kitchen, included at no extra cost. Has unusually good cemented basement, with practically new furnace.

Situated on large lot with plenty of shade and some fruit for home use. Good double garage. This dwelling is easy to heat and is in first class condition, and in spite of the fact that the original owner had nearly $6,500 invested in it, we are offering it today at only $4,000. You must see this home to appreciate its value.

THIRTY DIE IN 520 ACCIDENTS

Reckless Driver Rapped In State Patrol's Report for '39

East Liverpool, showed 34 accidents, two of which were fatal.

Two fatalities were listed in the 28 accidents on Route 7 between the junctions of Routes 14 and 30. One fatal crash occurred just west of Lisbon on Route 30. Route 46, between Canfield and Columbiana, had 22 mishaps, two of which resulted in fatalities.

The patrol investigated 32 mishaps, including two fatalities, on Route 224, from Deerfield to Boardman. Two fatal accidents were included in the 38 probed by the state patrolmen on Columbiana and Mahoning county roads.

Most accidents, Corp. Arey said, occurred on weekends. Mishaps occurring Saturday totaled 114; Sunday, 112. Two fatalities resulted from Saturday crashes and nine on Sundays.

The hour of 4 to 5 p. m. seems worst for driving. Forty-three accidents occurred at that time last year, while 37 happened between 5 and 6 p. m. and 35 between 7 and 8. Only four mishaps occurred during the year between 4 and 5, six between 5 and 6, seven between 6 and 7, and nine between 7 and 8 a. m.

The Arrest List

Besides making 32 apprehensions for other law enforcement groups, Salem state patrolmen accounted for the following arrests last year:

Reckless driving, 169; failure to obey stop signs, 46; driver's license violations, 46; insufficient lights, 43; driving while intoxicated, 33; license plate violations, 14; overload of commercial vehicle, 12; hit-skip 7; manslaughter in second degree, 6; insufficient brakes, 6; failure to obey an officer, 5; driving car without owner's consent, 5; failure to stop for school bus, 5; failure to file application for title, 4; failure to yield right-of-way, 2; conversion of motor vehicle, 1; starting motor vehicle without consent of owner, 1.

Theatre Attractions

Bette Davis and Errol Flynn, appearing in the title roles in "The Private Lives of Elizabeth and Essex".

"The Private Lives of Elizabeth and Essex", taken from the Broadway success by Maxwell Anderson, comes to the State Tuesday and Wednesday with Bette Davis and Errol Flynn in the starring roles.

Brilliant, authentic and colorful, the film tells a highly dramatic and human story against the magnificent pageantry of the Elizabethan court—the story of the one great love in the life of England's most famous queen, Miss Davis as the queen and Flynn as the dashing, lusty soldier, give performances that set a standard for the excellent work done by the entire cast.

Others in the film are Olivia de Havilland, as the queen's lady-in-waiting, hopelessly in love with Essex; Vincent Price as Sir Walter Raleigh, Essex's bitter rival; Donald

WAR LAMP POST TO BE MEMORIAL

Gas Light Burned While Gen. Sherman Tried To Shell City

ATLANTA, Ga. — A lamp-post that defied the roaring cannons of Gen. William T. Sherman and burned until he destroyed the city by fire in 1864 soon will be reconditioned and its gas jets lighted again.

The lamp-post will be made a landmark and a permanent Confederate memorial for behind that old iron post is a story still told in the south.

The post was one of 50 set up in the city in 1855 when a central gas plant was built to furnish street lamps that formerly had consisted of coal oil lamps. Erecting of the gas lamps marked the end of days when residents furnished fuel for their street lights.

It was on Christmas day that the lights first were lighted.

For nine years the lamps burned to the satisfaction of everyone. Even bombardments of Union armies could not put them out. On Aug. 6, 1864, Sherman put into action his heavy artillery. The city was fired upon from all sides.

One shell killed the superintendent of the City Gas Company and his 6-year-old daughter.

Another explosive struck the base of the lamp, killing a man named Sol Luckie and several others. But still the iron lamp-post stood.

Throughout the bombardment, each night found the city well-lighted by the dependable gas lights. They burned until Sherman crashed through the defending lines and set fire to the entire town. Only with the destruction of the gas plant did the lights go out.

But old-timers say the lights were not needed then. Flames from burning buildings provided far more illumination than even the brightest of electric bulbs today.
